

Wednesday 6th September 2023

Dear Parents

Further to my letter on Monday, I am writing with an invitation for you to join an online Q&A forum together with myself and the staff team on Wednesday 20th September at 6.00pm.

Due to the large number of people involved, I trust you will appreciate that the easiest way to expedite such a meeting is via an online medium.

As advised, the Ofsted report is due to be published on Tuesday 12th September; furthermore, you have already received an executive summary of our action plan which articulates in broad terms a response to any concerns raised in the body of the report. A very comprehensive plan is being used internally and will be copied to all Local Authorities. This meeting will be an opportunity for us to explain aspects of this plan to you and help you feel included as a part of the school's progression.

If you have a question you would like to ask in advance of the meeting, please email rachael@wemms.co.uk before 4pm on Friday 15th September who will collate responses; I will then assimilate the common themes and address them as honestly and transparently as I can, drawing upon comments from appropriate members of the staff team.

This time scale will give you an opportunity to digest the report, reflect upon our response and form your own opinion as to the school's suitability for your child. Naturally, the fundamental objective of the meeting is to offer you immediate, significant reassurance that Wemms is an inclusive, safe community for your child but also to demonstrate that the school is not complacent and instead actively planning for the future. Ultimately, the inception of our plan will benefit all stakeholders at the school, not least the boys and girls.

I very much look forward to seeing many of you in attendance and supporting us as we move the school forward with positivity and purpose.

Yours sincerely
